

Comparing presentation between a guys from SunTrust and a guy from Wells Fargo.

There was a presentation that was given on Monday by Kamal and Michael. Their presentation was interesting except I didn't like the act of Kamal so other than that they did a very good job. Kamal and Michael presented a bank name SunTrust.

The other presentation was presented by a guy named Elton. Elton presents the bank of Wells Fargo.

Both of the presentations help me understand about how to use credit cards and other personal life.

About banking I learn that banks are like businesses and they make profit out of you and also they give people money. New ideas I learn about is whenever you pay late your credit score goes down and it stays on your record for 7 years. Nothing surprises me at all because I already learn about it.

